CIA recruitment protested on campus

Nearly 300 demonstrators representing several student groups turned out Wednesday noon on the University of Wisconsin library mall to protest CIA recruitment on campus. Although the groups called the assembly "United Front," they were divided into two factions that eventually ended up in a spat. A brief shoving match ensued when a group representing WSA, the Spartacus Youth League and the Teaching Assistants Association encountered members of the Revolutionary Communist Progressive Labor Party and the International Committee Against Racism. Campus police on hand to control the crowd said that the skirmish was short lived and no arrests were made.
